

Postgraduate Certificates

Accredited Postgraduate Certificates

The ADEA conducts an Accreditation Program for tertiary education institutions offering postgraduate courses in diabetes education and management. Completing an ADEA accredited postgraduate course is one of the criteria for achieving recognition as an ADEA CDE.

The aim of the ADEA Accreditation Program is to ensure people with or at risk of diabetes have access to quality diabetes education and care, through course curriculum offered to students that is consistent with evidenced-based best practice diabetes education, reflects current and emerging practice trends and equips students with the skills and knowledge required in today's complex health care environment. The courses include a clinical placement component and require the completion of the Student Placement Record Booklet.

Diabetes Education and Management qualifications gained overseas

All Diabetes Education and Management qualification gained overseas must be reviewed and accepted by ADEA prior to being approved as part of a credentialling application. Overseas qualified diabetes educators should send an email to cde@adea.com.au seeking approval of their overseas qualifications.

University documentation to be attached with your application

- Your Graduate Certificate
- Your Academic transcript
- Certificate of completion of the practical component of the graduate certificate (Deakin only)
- Your Case Study (if applicable)

An additional Case Study requirement if your diabetes education and management qualification was obtained more than six years ago.

Diabetes Educators with Graduate Certificate dating beyond the 6 years must complete a Case Study as well as meeting all other criteria for achieving ADEA recognition as a CDE. The Marking Guide and the Template for your case study are provided for further guidance
